

The following letter was written by Charlie Williams, Ministry to Men Director. After many requests for him to write a book about Ministry to Men and after several attempts to do just that, someone suggested he simply write letters sharing some of the truths God has been teaching him during the years.

We will be posting his letters on the Ministry to Men Web site and changing them periodically, probably weekly.

Sharing What I'm Learning (Romans 12: 1, 2)

This letter has to go back probably 30 years to when I met Charlie (Tremendous) Jones and had offered to get him four or five speaking engagements in the St. Louis area and be his chauffeur. He exposed me to Oswald Chambers during that time but he also made a comment to me that took many years to begin to make sense to me. He said he wasn't Charlie (Tremendous) Jones, he was Charlie (learning) Jones and that he had never learned anything. I didn't understand what he meant that he had never learned anything. But as the years have gone by I've discovered that to say that I've learned something means that I know all about it and which in essence means to me that now I no longer need God in that area. So I am thankfully in the process of learning everyday; from the scriptures, from the people I associate with; from the society; from everything going on around us.

God speaks about this in Romans 12: 1, 2 where basically He tells us that we no longer need to be conformed to the world that we were born into but we are to be transformed by the renewing of our mind and this comes by learning.

Have a great day.

God bless,

Charlie
